THE FATE OF A LEARNED PIG.

A Little Learning Proved to Be a Dangerous Thing to This Porker.

About eleven years ago a famous hog of almost superhuman intelligence was attached to the imperial circus at St. Petersburg, where it basked in the sunshine of fashionable favor throughout two gay winter seasons. This sagacious creature, at once a ready reckoner, fortune teller and deft executioner of card tricks, was the property of one Tanti, a famous Italian clown, who had brought it up from infancy and taught it all its accomplishments.

One night he and his pig were hidden to a gathering of young officers of the Russian Guard supping together after the performance, and were called upon to repeat the programme of the evening—of course on payment of a handsome fee. At the conclusion of the show one of the officers offered Tanti 1,000 rubles for his pig. The clown declined to sell, pointing out that the docile and clever animal constituted his chief source of income, and that, moreover, he was far too fond of it to part from it. Upon this the officers proceeded to tempt him by outbidding one another until they ran the price up to 6,000 rubles.

This sum, the equivalent of over $700, and the reflection that he could probably train another pig to replace the one thus so lucratively valued, finally induced Tanti to accept the offer. Little thinking to what a dismal fate he thereby consigned his pet. Next day the luckless animal was slaughtered by order of its purchaser and sent to the clown's lodging with the message that "no doubt Signor Tanti would like to taste a porker which had been so profitable to him in life and death alike."

The whole grim story, equally discreditable to all concerned in it, got wind in St. Petersburg and made a painful impression upon Russian society. A severe reprimand was administered to the officer whose cruel freak had caused the death of a public favorite, and Tanti's popularity sensibly declined. Oddly enough, a few months later he was fired at while cutting capers in the ring by an eccentric Polish nobleman, whose bullet just missed the clown, burying itself in the saddle of his feed, and causing him such fright that he fled from the circus like one demonted.

When interrogated as to the motive of his extraordinary conduct the sportsman magnate—a well known sportsman and patron of the circus—calmly replied that "having been much diverted by the clown's feats, he felt himself bound to fire a salute in Tanti's honor." Shortly afterward the recipient of this strange compliment quitted Russia.—London Telegraph.

The Formation of Mineral Veins.
The processes by which nature forms accumulations of silver are very interesting. It must be remembered that the earth's crust is full of water, which percolates everywhere through the rocks, making so many of the elements obtained from them. These chemical solutions take up small particles of the precious metal which they find scattered here and there. Sometimes the solutions in question are hot, the water having got so far down as to be seething with the internal heat of the globe.

Then they rush upward, picking up the bits of metal as they go. Naturally heat assists the performance of this operation. Now and then the streams thus formed, perpetually flowing hither and thither below ground, pass through cracks or cavities in the rocks, where they deposit their loads of silver. This is kept up for a great length of time, perhaps thousands of years, until the fissure or pocket is filled up. Crannies permeating the story mass in every direction may become filled with the metal, or occasionally a chamber may be stored full of it, as if a myriad hands were catching the treasure from all sides and hiding away a future bonanza for some lucky prospector to discover in another age.—Minerals.

St. Patrick's Purgatory.
Medieval legends and legends, which are rich in all sorts of mythical and fantastical lore, locate the entrance to St. Patrick's famous "purgatory" on the island of Lough Derg, Ireland. The opening itself was through a cave, the existence of which was revealed to the saint by Christ, who informed the good Patrick that any one with the moral courage to go down into the cavern would be saved the pangs of the real "purgatory" after death. Patrick built a monastery at the entrance of his earthly "purgatory" and secured the way to the pit by an iron gate provided with strong chains and locks of peculiar and intricate workmanship. Lough Derg, next to Jerusalem, was the most celebrated spot on earth during the Middle Ages. Thousands visited "purgatory" every year, and the whole island had the appearance of a populous city.—St. Louis Republic.

A Souvenir of the Seashore.
An enterprising schoolgirl from an inland town, on returning home to her parents after her first visit to the seashore, took with her a small bottle containing a half inch of sand and two inches of salt water, just to give her parents, who had never seen the ocean, some idea of how it was constructed. The parents, we learn from private sources, were very much impressed.—London Tit Bits.

THE GODS OF THE ANCIENTS.

It seems strange to some of us that the ancients should cry aloud to Jupiter in their hour of affliction and praise and believe in a succor that never came. But it was not very strange. Every dawn and every sunset thrilled one with awe, the dulcet, coldest clod feels that this great globe of fire in the heavens is the beacon of eternity, while for him there is no tomorrow. The old world saw its god climb in the east every day. His light, warm and kindly, bringing hope and cheer or cradling to the irony of misery in the hearts of those who saw it, crept into every house. It glorified the towers and domes of the city, and added to the horrors of the holocaust or battlefield. The Egyptians, Babylonians, Greeks and Romans had their gods above them, the sun by day, the moon and stars by night, for those with eyes to see, and the worshippers of those silent, indifferent and inscrutable deities waited and wept in vain, sacrificed and bled before their altars in vain.

We, too, cry to our unseen God from wrecks, floods, battlefields, sickness, famine, oppression and fear, but these things and death seem eternal, and resignation and the final mystery are the only cure for the ills of each generation. We know nothing, we hope for all things, and we die.—New England Magazine.

He Licked the Kitten.

The Rev. Father Kennedy, of St. Patrick's church, has a handsome St. Bernard dog that weighs 100 pounds or more, which roams the streets like an autocrat and exercises his own sweet will. He has the appearance of being a moral dog, but his reputation would be better if he had not contracted the habit of following the police about the city at night. Thursday afternoon he met a panting kitten near the postoffice that was once white, but in the dust of the street she had become a dirty and unsightly thing, such as small dogs like to harass. She did not weigh over a pound, but 100 pounds of dog could not make the kitten run.

She humped herself into a tiny ball and spat at the noble St. Bernard a number of times, but when she found he meant her no harm she yielded herself to his caresses. He lapped her with a tongue as large as she was, and when she became suspicious and wanted to flee, the dog held her and lapped her fur until she was as white as snow. He then left her to go her way and trotted off through Main street.—Norwich Bulletin.

From Stowaway to Captain.

Twenty years ago Captain E. A. Marwick, of Portland, late master of the bark Rose Innes, found a stowaway on board his vessel just after leaving a German port for the United States. Calling the ragged and half starved boy aft Captain Marwick, who was never noted for amiability, asked what he meant by coming on board his vessel, and told him to prepare for the soundest thrashing he ever got. The boy replied that a thrashing was just what he expected.

This excited Captain Marwick's curiosity, and he questioned the boy, who said that he had been accustomed to daily thrashings at home, and thought that he could not possibly fare worse as a stowaway on an American merchantman. At this Captain Marwick's anger changed to admiration for the plucky lad, whom he soon after adopted. The old captain has now retired from the sea, and the poor stowaway now commands the Rose Innes and has a wife and children in a pleasant home in Farmington, where the man who gave him a start in the world instead of a thrashing often visits.—Million.

One of Jim's Stories.

Here is one of Jim Hawthorn's stories: "Up in Wyoming we had a cattle ford, and my partner, that brought us in lots of stuff. 'What is a cattle ford?' 'Don't you know what a cattle ford is?' 'Never heard of one.' 'Well, on some of them creeks there ain't no place where cattle can cross for miles. Me and my partner got one of the smaller places and fenced it in. Every time a herd would come along we would go out and I'd sell tickets on one side and Bill would take them at the other. Got $9,000 one day, and when I turned in found I had forty dollars still in my pocket, and there was only 9,000 cattle.' 'What did you do with the forty dollars?' 'Waited till the next day and gave it back to the cattleman with four dollars interest. Oh, we was square! Them was the times when we made money.'—Colorado Sun.

An Important Fact.

Every line in a newspaper costs something. If it is for the benefit of an individual it should be paid for. If the grocer were asked to contribute groceries to one abundantly able to pay for them he would refuse. The proprietor of a newspaper must pay for the free advertising if the beneficiary does not, and yet it is one of the hardest things to be learned by many that a newspaper has space in its columns to rent and must rent to live. To give away or rent for anything less than living rates would be certainly fatal to a land-bolt to furnish rent free. Pomona Progress.

that you can secure almost immediate relief from Indigestion, and that uncomfortable fullness after meals, by simply taking a dose of Simmons Liver Regulator? Some people think that because it is called Liver Regulator it has nothing to do with Indigestion and the like. It is the inaction of the liver that causes Indigestion, and that fullness; also Constipation, and those Bilious Headaches. Millions have been made to understand this and have been cured from these troubles by Simmons Liver Regulator—a medicine unfailing and purely vegetable.

From Rev. M. B. Wharton, Baltimore, Md.
"It affords me pleasure to add my testimony to the great virtue of Simmons Liver Regulator. I have had experience with it, as occasion demanded, for many years, and regard it as the greatest medicine of the times. So good a medicine deserves universal commendation."

SONOMA INDEX-TRIBUNE.

SONOMA, OCTOBER 15, 1892.

H. H. GRANICE - EDITOR

The contract for a new County Jail has been let at San Diego by the "Solid Three" of the five Supervisors, who refused to submit the proposition to a vote of the people, on the grounds that they did not know what was good for them. These San Diego Supervisors are no doubt trying to emulate the example of the present Board of Supervisors of Sonoma county, who have been running things pretty much in their own fashion, regardless of the protests of taxpayers. But when those San Diego fellows serve out their terms of office they will be relegated to obscurity. They will not be honored with a nomination to the Assembly as a reward for their perfidy to the people—because, you know, they don't live in Sonoma county.

The State Board of Trade at its monthly meeting in San Francisco last Tuesday listened to an address upon the distribution of California fruits in the East by W. H. Mills of the Southern Pacific. He thought that the question which needed consideration at the present time was how could we reach the great mass of consumers in a manner that would be profitable to both the producer and the consumer. He recommends the appointment of a Commissioner to be sent East for the purpose of finding means for the distribution of California fruits. L. C. McAfee offered a resolution to the effect that a committee of three be appointed to investigate the subject of Mr. Mills' essay and report, first, approval or disapproval of the plan; second, the best method by which to put the plan into execution, and third, who could best undertake the execution of the plan. The resolution was adopted and L. C. McAfee, W. H. Mills and George C. Perkins were appointed as a Committee.

J. BARLOW MOORHEAD, a young man reported to be worth $500,000, who was recently discharged as a member of drunkenness at the Keeley Bichloride of Gold Institute in Philadelphia, committed suicide in New York, one day this week, when he found his old habits were getting the better of him.

As the hanging of a man, failed to come off at Pinetown, Mo., the residents of that town were determined that the scaffold should not have been erected for nothing, so a "yaller dog" was accordingly strung up.

Forty-two thousand acres of land in the Visalia and Independence districts in California claimed by the Southern Pacific have been cancelled by the government officials.

It is reported that some very damaging evidence has been discovered in the Borden murder case, and that Lizzie Borden will be convicted.

The Democrats of Minnesota have withdrawn their electoral candidates and will support the People's Party candidates for those offices.

It must be borne in mind that at this season of the year everything is in such a dry and inflammable state that a spark from a cigarette may cause the destruction of much valuable property, hence it is imperative that the farmer should use every precaution against fire.

The hunter who makes his appearance in a field at this season of the year with a muzzle-loading shotgun should get the full penalty of the law.

The paper which most of the muzzles-loading fraternity of Nimrod use for loading guns is certain to create a fire if it should land in the dry grass which is now on the hills and valleys frequented by quail at this season of the year.

In shooting from a breechloader there is comparatively little danger to be anticipated, as the wads used for the loading of shells are composed of a material that is not inflammable.

The Commissioners have instructed their deputies to keep a close eye out for quail that have been trapped and are waiting shipment to the markets the early part of the season. Men will be placed on the trains and boats arriving in San Francisco and any birds found minus shot marks will be confiscated.

URIC ACID.

WHAT IT IS AND HOW IT FORMS.
A Clear Description of This Most Subtle Enemy of Modern American Life—What a Prominent Physician Says.

A well-known professor connected with a leading medical college, in conversation, recently made the following wonderful assertions: "There is probably nothing which has ever been known in the history of the world that has caused more real misery to men and women than that simple and yet dangerous element called uric acid. This dangerous substance gets into the blood of men and women, and even children, even before they suspect it, and the havoc that it works is simply appalling. It causes rheumatism, neuralgia, gout and angina. It is the cause of most colds and the actual source of nearly every case of grip.

You ask how this dangerous acid gets into the blood? Very easily. The principal duty of the kidneys and bladder is to expel uric acid from the system. They fail to work very frequently, and instead of being driven from the system, this poisonous uric acid goes into the blood. When it is in the blood it ferments, and causes unnumbered diseases and too often occasions death. "It must be plain, even to a novice, that the only way in which to keep the acid out of the blood is to keep the kidneys and bladder in a strong, healthy and vigorous condition. This is the whole problem in a nutshell, and the man or woman who does this is invariably free from uric acid and the innumerable troubles which it causes. I have never known of but one thing that will in every case drive uric acid from the system, and that is Warner's Safe Cure, and that is the medical profession to be possessed of properties unknown to any discovery of ancient or modern times. I have known of women who have been weak, run down and wholly unsexed, who are to-day pictures of health and strength, and they know as well as I do that the result is due to but one thing—the great cure of which I have spoken."

The great truths above stated are as certain as existence, and they reveal the real cause of most physical misery of the present day, and they clearly reveal the way of escaping from such misery. No man or woman at the present day should be the victim of uric acid poison. That it is very prevalent is most true, but to permit it to get into the system, or having gotten there to remain, is simply folly.

A person who has not done anything to distinguish himself is generally not allowed queer habits. Eccentricity is not for common people. But for Washington Allston, one of America's most noted painters, all things were right. His excessive sensitiveness was shown in many ways.

When India rubber overalls began to be worn he was induced to purchase a pair for his health's sake, but he could never put them on or remove them except with a pair of tongs.

But that same delicate sensitiveness showed itself in another way. His scrupulous conscience was illustrated by an incident occurring in 1816, when he was in urgent need of money.

He had just found a purchaser for one of his pictures, but thinking the matter over alone in the evening he concluded that the subject of the painting was such that at some time it might have an immoral effect on some perverted imagination.

He immediately went to his patron's house, paid back the money, took the picture home and burned it.

This was sensitiveness worth having.

On the way to Paradise.

Let us hope that the people who habitually disregard their health will reach that desirable place, and avoid the locality which is less desirable as an eternal residence on account of the heat and surroundings generally. But while we tarry in this vale of tears, why should we voluntarily endure the tortures of dyspepsia, which a systematic use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will rid us of the atrocious malady which—unless physicians are very much at fault—tends to shorten the term of our existence. Then she who is afflicted with a "handful of nervousness, biliousness, constipation" and most always accompany this complaint and are symptomatic of it. These are all expunged by the Bitters, which also conquers completely malaria, rheumatism, nervousness and debility. Since the appearance of "la grippe" it has shown a similar mastery over this formidable complaint that has carried off so many of our brightest and best.

A Little Girl's Experience in a Light-house.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Treco are keepers of the Gov. Light-house at San Francisco. Mr. Treco was taken down with measles, followed with a dreadful cough and turning into a fever. Doctors at home and at Detroit treated her, but in vain, she grew and at last died. Dr. King's New Discovery was used, and after the use of two and a half bottles, was completely cured. They say Dr. King's New Discovery is worth its weight in gold, yet you may get a trial bottle free at Ed. Wagner's Drugstore.

The new Australian ballot system bids fair to be confusing to the average voter. About the best plan to pursue is for the voter to stamp an X in the square at the end of each candidate's name whom he desires to vote for. By doing this he will be pursuing the safest course. No one but a bigoted partizan desires to vote a straight ticket these days. Pick out the best men, it matters not what party they may belong to, and put your stamp in the square opposite their names. In this way you will be sure to get the men of your choice, otherwise you may make a mistake in marking your ballot and lose your vote. The day for voting a straight ticket has gone past. The voting of a mixed ticket has been found to be the only effectual way of keeping "the rascals" out of office, although we must admit that even that plan fails sometimes as the tax-payers of Sonoma township have found out to their sorrow in the past. Still the plan of a mixed ticket is a good one, as by the primitive method of voting straight tickets the chances are as ten to one in favor of the "rascals" as against tax-payers.

Vote for Allen Bryant for County Treasurer.

Vote for P. N. Stofen for County Treasurer. He has proven himself a faithful servant of the people.

Special Trustee's Meeting.

The City Trustees met in special session last Thursday evening. A full Board was present.

The question of erecting the bridge at Duhring's crossing coming up, on motion of Trustee Seipp the plans of J. O. Burkhalter were adopted with some slight alterations, and the clerk was instructed to notify Mr. Burkhalter to draw up a contract in accordance with the plans submitted with the alterations embraced in the same.

On motion of Trustee Seipp the Cemetery Committee was given full power to sell cemetery lots in Mountain Cemetery to San Francisco parties.

The proposition to light the town with gas was then discussed. Trustees Schocken, Litzius, Weyl and Seipp favored the calling of an election to decide the matter, but as an ordinance had to be drawn up and passed before an election could be held to submit the matter to the people the Board adjourned until next Wednesday to pass an ordinance which will allow them to go ahead and hold an election.

A Distinguished Visitor.

Hon. R. C. Sargent of Stockton was in town this week, the guest of his friend Capt. W. B. Pless. During his sojourn in this valley he made a thorough inspection of the Senator Jones place, five miles south of Sonoma. Senator Sargent is without a doubt one of the best authorities in the State on the reclamation of marsh and tide lands. He is the owner and cultivator of thousands of acres of reclaimed lands in San Joaquin county and his success in farming that class of lands has been phenomenal. Mr. Sargent was greatly surprised at the great success attained by Mr. Pless and his wonderful dredger in reclaiming the thousands of acres of marsh lands south of Sonoma. In all his experience as a reclaimer of these lands, and he has now over a hundred thousand acres under cultivation, the Senator says he has never seen such rapid and successful work done in so short a time as has been accomplished by Captain Pless the past two years.

The Proposed Chemical Works.

A meeting of the directors of the Sonoma Valley Bank was held in the private rooms of the bank last Tuesday afternoon, and among other matters considered was the proposition of E. K. Stevens to erect chemical works in this place. Nothing definite was arrived at, owing to the absence of Vice President Duhring, who was compelled to absent himself on account of sickness. Thos. Hopper and W. E. McConnell of Santa Rosa and David Burris of Traver were present. Another meeting will be held in a short time.

The Fair.

A beautiful gold medal will be presented to the candidate polling the most votes. At this election all will be entitled to vote, young or old, and as often as they choose.

Vote for Somers B. Fulton for County Clerk. He is both honest and capable.

SILK FACTORY BALL.

Two Hundred Couple Present—A Brilliant Gathering.

The Silk Factory ball, held in Petaluma, last Tuesday evening, was one of the most brilliant social gatherings ever held in Sonoma county.

The society people of Petaluma, Santa Rosa and other places turned out en masse. Although it was announced as not being a full dress affair, the costumes of many of the ladies were both pretty and costly; and with the sparkling of diamonds, the beautiful costumes of the ladies and the glow from one hundred and sixty incandescent electric lights, the scene was one long to be remembered as the two hundred couple went through the inspiring figures of the grand march.

Many notable society people were present and it is no exaggeration to state that the wealth and beauty of Sonoma county were present to do honor to the Carlson Currier Silk Mills Company which has set up its plant in Petaluma, and which is destined at no distant day to be one of the greatest manufacturing establishments in Northern California.

The committee having the affair in hand was composed of Petaluma's most enterprising and respected citizens.

Col. D. B. Fairbanks acted as floor manager and he was untiring in his efforts to make it pleasant for the four hundred or more guests present.

In securing the silk mills, and the grand ball to celebrate the completion of the building, the people of Petaluma have again shown that for push, pluck and enterprise they are still in the lead as against the people of any other city of its size in the whole State of California.

A Good Word for J. C. Sims.

MR. EDITOR:

I write this note to say a word for a man I know. I know Mr. Sims, candidate for the Assembly from the 17th district, very well.

I know him to be a good, honest man who will vote for the interests of the people.

I write this because some people say they want a farmer.

If a man is honest and will not sell out the people as one member from this county did, that is the kind of man they want.

I've had business with Mr. Sims and know he is a good and safe man who will not sell his vote for all the money in this State.

His opponent is no more of a farmer than he is and is not near so good a man.

He has been a Supervisor and has not been a very good one for the people who elected him. Every body knows that Mr. Sims is another kind of man and is just as much of a farmer as Mr. Cady and he is a superior man for the people in every way.

I write this because I know Mr. Sims.

Please give this communication a place in your paper and oblige.

Yours very respectfully,
A SONOMA COUNTY FARMER.

They came up from San Rafael in a special car expressly to be present at the ball, which was one of the most brilliant ever held in Northern California.

Dame Rumor has it that there are three weddings to take place in Sonoma in the near future. The blushing groomsman in the prospective, however, while they do not deny the soft impeachment try to look modest and girlish when the Index-Tribune interviewer is about, all of which goes to prove that the old jade is probably right this time.

EXPERT KITEFLYING.

Four Chinese Show Their Skill Near the Washington Monument.

There were four Chinamen down in the monument grounds evidently out for a frolic, and for about an hour they were the center of a wondering crowd of Americans, who enjoyed the most fantastic piece of kite-flying that it is not often the lot of a good Yankee citizen to see.

Two of the Celestials were attired in faultless tailor made clothes, but the other two still clung to the flowing costume of the east, though their light silk tunics and embroidered shoes were of richer material than one often sees aside from the members of the legation. Their kite was of the famous dragon pattern, and from the ground looked the exact counterpart of a huge red and white lizard twenty or thirty feet long, with a staring head, blue whiskers and a waving tail of flaming red cloth that lashed about in an excited way.

The monster cut all sorts of strange antics. For awhile it would lie still, straight and rigid except for the ceaseless movement of the red tail. Then it would begin to undulate like a great water snake, and darting about the sky strain at its tether, threatening to crawl down the chimney of the bureau of engraving and printing, and then, changing its mind, mount away heavenward again with a snaky quiver through out its whole length.

The little Chinaman in a lilac silk skirt, who was engineering the ground end of the kite string, seemed to have some occult understanding with his strange pet, in virtue of which it obeyed his slightest motion. A slight turn of his slender brown wrist would send the creature mounting upward into space, and at a sweep of his arm it would go through a whole aerial circus act. It pulled like a demon, too, and after enervating around on his feet with it for half an hour in the stiff breeze its master was glad enough to sit down on the big ball of string on the ground and let his arm rest.

But the most remarkable part of the performance came when one of the kitefliers produced a light bamboo frame covered with rice paper which unfolded in the shape of a butterfly. A pack of firecrackers was attached to it, and when it was hung on the string of the kite it crawled steadily upward till within a few feet of the dragon's head, when the crackers went off and the frame-work folded up and slid back down the string.

When finally tired of their sport the orientals hauled in the monster, and as it lay on the ground its construction could be clearly noted. It had a grotesque face, with a gaping mouth and windmill eyes that blinked with a rotary motion. The body was made up of twenty or thirty of the lightest disks of rice paper, varying from ten to three inches in diameter, and stretched on delicate bamboo hoops and hitched tandem a foot or more apart. The whole was wonderfully light, but when extended presented a surface to the air that made it float like a bird. - Washington Post.

Hepatitis Oyer a Seal.

A good story is related of Robert Toombs and General John B. Gordon. General Gordon is a conspicuous figure in the south today, and all who have seen him will recall to memory the long scar upon the upper part of his left cheek, the memento of a saber wound received during the war. Gordon is immensely popular, and of his popularity Toombs was a little bit jealous. He showed this feeling when in a campaign speech he said:

"If that scar were on the back of Gordon's neck instead of on his face he wouldn't be so popular."

Gordon heard of this, and a few days later while addressing a political gathering got back at the famous orator as follows:

"If Toombs had been where I was when I got that scar it would be on the back of his neck instead of his face." - Detroit Free Press.

The Effect of a Borrowed Ring.

Maud Cheviot was standing in her friend's boudoir. "It worked," she said to her hostess, "beautifully. There is your ring, and thank you so much. I shall always, in some sort, owe you much of my happiness, you know. - It is a pretty ring. I hope your fiancé may never object to my temporary use of it. Tom proposed twenty-four hours after he saw it on my finger. It's always the way with men. When they think they have lost you, and now, you see, I've got a real engagement ring of my own; not yours, dear. But we're to be married in three months. You must come to the wedding. Tom has very much to thank you for - or your ring. He shall know that some day." - Chicago Times.

PASTOR KOENIG'S NERVE TONIC
ALANCO, CAL., Jan. 26, 1891
My wife was troubled with nervousness about one year before she took Pastor Koening's Nerve Tonic, and at that time had very severe attacks of spasmodic convulsion and pains in different parts of the body; when in this state her lower jaw would not relax and she sometimes, like her tongue, breathe heavily, then short, then agitated, and at last, when she was in bed, she would roll around, then stop sometimes; I would cut her hair, and she would lie in bed, otherwise she would crawl and be so for two hours. She took but two bottles of the Nerve Tonic, which cured her of all these troubles, which myself and wife gladly testify to. Truly and the desired result.
